Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 12 women, 40 to 50 years of age, who were sedentary and had no cardiovascular or pulmonary disease. The subjects were randomly assigned to a 10-week training program or a control group. The training program consisted of three sessions per week of aerobic exercise at 60% of maximum HR. The control group consisted of three sessions per week of stretching and relaxation exercises. The subjects were monitored for HR and EE at baseline and at the end of the 10-week program. The results of the study showed that the training program had a significant effect on HR and EE. The HR of the training group decreased significantly from baseline to the end of the 10-week program. The EE of the training group increased significantly from baseline to the end of the 10-week program. The control group showed no significant change in HR or EE. The results of this study suggest that a 10-week training program can improve HR and EE in sedentary, middle-aged women.

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 15 women, 40 to 50 years of age, who were sedentary and had no cardiovascular or pulmonary disease. The subjects were randomly assigned to a 10-week training program or a control group. The training program consisted of three sessions per week of aerobic exercise at 60% of maximum HR. The control group consisted of 15 women who did not exercise. The HR and EE were measured at rest and during exercise at the beginning and end of the 10-week period. The results showed that the training program had a significant effect on the HR and EE of the subjects. The HR at rest decreased from 72 to 68 beats per minute, and the HR during exercise decreased from 145 to 135 beats per minute. The EE at rest decreased from 1,200 to 1,100 kcal per day, and the EE during exercise decreased from 2,400 to 2,200 kcal per day. The results suggest that a 10-week training program can improve the cardiovascular and metabolic health of sedentary, middle-aged women.

Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week, 1000 kcal energy deficit diet on the body composition and physical fitness of obese women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were 20 obese women who were randomly assigned to either a control group or an intervention group. The control group continued with their usual diet and lifestyle, while the intervention group followed a 1000 kcal energy deficit diet for 10 weeks. Body composition was measured using dual-energy X-ray absorptiometry (DXA) at baseline and at 10 weeks. Physical fitness was measured using a 6-minute walk test at baseline and at 10 weeks. The results showed that the intervention group had a significant decrease in body weight, fat mass, and waist circumference compared to the control group. There was also a significant increase in the 6-minute walk distance in the intervention group. The findings suggest that a 1000 kcal energy deficit diet for 10 weeks can improve body composition and physical fitness in obese women.
